Every hour in the United States, someone is newly diagnosed with MS. The progress, severity and specific symptoms in any one person cannot yet be predicted, but advances in research and treatment are moving us closer to a world free of MS. Most people are diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 50, with more than twice as many women being diagnosed with the disease. MS affects more than 400,000 people in the U.S., more than 10,000 of whom are children and adolescents - some as young as two years-old.

MS stops people from moving. The Oregon Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society exists to make sure it doesn't. With one of the highest incidence rates of MS in the country, we serve nearly 7,300 individuals with MS and their families in Oregon and Clark County, WA.

With the help of people like you, the National MS Society addresses the challenges of each person whose life is affected by MS and helps them stay connected to the great big moving world. Thank you for joining the movement toward a world free of MS. Learn more about the movement at www.defeatMS.com.
